The 2014 FIFA World Cup, which is an event that is held every four years, took place in Brazil between 12 June to 13 July 2014. It was the second time that Brazil hosted the competition, the previous being in 1950. The tournament was staged in South America for the first time since 1978 in Argentina, and the fifth time overall.

A total of 64 matches were played in twelve cities across Brazil in either new or redeveloped stadiums, with the tournament beginning with a group stage. For the first time at a World Cup Finals, the matches have used goal-line technology and a special foam spray to mark where the defending players are ordered to stand by the referee in the event of a free kick. Spain was the defending champion, having defeated the Netherlands 1–0 in the 2010 World Cup final to win its first World title, but it was highly unsuccessful now. The previous four World Cups staged in South America had all been won by South American teams. In 2014, Germany defeated Argentina and won the object of all footballers' desire.
